COMPROMISE TALK GOSSIP

Neither Party to Suit Admits It Out of Court.

Growing out of the efforts of Treasury officials and of the Administration to hold down the Riggs Bank controversy to the limits of a legal contention over what are the powers of the Comptroller and to prevent it from becoming an issue of large political and financial importance, rumors of possible peace parleys between the contesting parties are in circulation.

Thus far, no such move has been made and neither side admits it is looking for

One source of the talk of efforts at edjustment is the fact that it is well known some of the President's ablest advisers in the Cabinet are convinced the controversy is one of doubtful value to the Administration.

Fear It May Prove Hurtful.

Some fear it may prove hurtful to the Federal reserve system. Under the surface, in Administration circles, there is a great deal of talk pro and con about the case and the possible results

But whether any compromise is poseible under all the circumstances is something which only tuture developments can show. Thus far, there seems no basis but gossip for the idea of com-

If a way could be found to strip the case of everything but the straight-out issue of what the powers of the Comptroller are, there is little doubt this would meet the sanction of the Administration. Officials are keeping the lid on developments as far as possible and preserving reticence as much as they can, while insisting the only question is what the authority of the Comptroller under the law is. But the bank officials insist the charge of persecution of the bank with a purpose to tion of the bank with a purpose to "wreck" it in order to satisfy person-altitles, cannot be escaped.

Bank Officials Reply.

Charging that Comptroller Williams, through the statement issued last night, is endeavoring to obscure the real issue involved in the controversy between the Riggs Bank and his office, and to leave the public under the impression that the bank has refused to furnish information other hanks are required to furnish, the bank officials today issued the following statement :

"The statement given out by the Comptroller of the Currency last evening is intended to convey the impression that the Riggs Bank has refused to furnish or has objected to furnishing his office information all banks have been re-quired to and do furnish. The Riggs National Bank has had no controversy National Bank has had no controversy whatever with Comptroller Williams concerning any of the many calls he has made generally on banks, or with respect to the frequent charges and additions which he has made on the statement blanks, and it has freely and fully responded to every such general request besides numerous special demands est, besides numerous special demands since he came into office.

"The effort thus to segregate the Riggs Bank, to put it in a class by itself, as being in opposition to those calls for information which the Comptroller may lawfully make on any an all banks, is an attempt on his part to obscure the real issue between the Riggs Bank and the Comptroller. The Comptroller may do many things, eve within the law, which are burdenson and vexatious, but the Riggs Bank does not and never has offered opposition to "What the Riggs Bank has complained of is that, broad as his lowful powers undoubtedly are. Comptroller Williams has exceeded them so far as it is concerned, even to the extent a violating the law. He has literally been a law unto himself, without restraint or limitation. It was to keep Comptroller Williams within the law that the Riggs Williams within the law that the Riggs Bank was compelled to resort to the courts."

Comptroller Williams caused a state-statement to be issued to the effect that additional information now required to be set forth in the reports of the banks has been hitherto obtained from all banks by the examiners and has not simply applied to the Riggs Bank as alleged.

The Comptroller's statement was:
"When attention was directed to the statement that counsel for the Riggs
National Bank had said 'the additional National Bank had said 'the additional information on the new forms for reports of condition just sent out to national banks had been demanded of the Riggs National Bank in particular in the past' and that 'the sending out of the new forms for statements by the office of the Comptroller * * is a belated attempt to obtain from all banks information which the Plems Bank had belated attempt to obtain from all banks information which the Riggs Bank had charged has been asked of that bank only in the past to such an extent as to constitute the harassment and persecution of which the bank complained, it was officially stated at the office of the Comptroller of the Currency that the Comptroller of the Currency that was wholly untrue, and that he portion of the additional information called for in the new reports of condition has been

BANK CASE IS LEGAL Justice Andrews Begins Considering of Instructions to Jury—Expected to Swing Case—Roosevelt and Opponent Stay in Syracuse.

By BOND P. GEDDES.

SYRACUSE, May 1.—With court in Roosevelt had given little evidence in ecess today until Monday, the soft "justification" of the alleged libel, except that of William Loeb, regarding recess today until Monday, the soft pedal was put on the political discards Is Looking for Adjustment of the Barnes-Roosevelt libel trial. Today's activity consisted solely of conferences between lawyers and princ'pals. Colonel Roosevelt and Barnes both remained here.

A heavy rain curbed the colonel's outdoor exercise program, but he planned to take a long walk despite the showers, and possibly a horseback ride. Barnes and Roosevelt both met their lawyers at a hotel here.

Behind the scenes, however, the celebrated case today was really being decided to a large degree. Trial Justice Andrews began considering his instructions to the jury. All counsel concede that these directions will largey "swing" the case. The colonel's tes-timony was the main point being considered. That some will be stricken from the record and ordered ignored by the jury was the prediction of Barnes' counsel.

Barnes' counsel.

That the judge will not direct a verdict was generally believed. Barnes' counsel today asserted, however, that a verdict directed for the New York State leader, with the jury to assess damages, was possible.

NEWPORT NEWS, May 1.-With a alvo of salutes from every vessel in the harbor here and in Hampton Roads, amid the noise of steaming whistles and the cheering of a large party of invited guests, the coast guard cutters Talla-poosa and Ossipee were launched today. spoke at the luncheon.

Dedicating the two new vessels to the service of the country, Secretary Newton described them as the "good samaritans of the sea" ready to rescue those in distress, and equally ready" should the time come—as it may—when our national honor or safety are in peril to defend us against our foes."

Miss Mabel Hartwell, daughter of H. T. Hartwell, of Mobile, Ala., sponsored the Tallapoosa, and Miss Sallle Fleming McAdoo, eleven years old, youngest child of the Secretary of the Treasury, sponsored the Ossipee. They were honor guests at the luncheon, and each received a handsome gold bracelet, ap-propriately engraved, as a memento. The presentation was made by Captain 'ommandant E. P. Bertholf.

Mr. Newton began his speech by saying: "The occasion of the launching of these two new coast guard cutters, which we are now celebrating, is one of unusual interest and importance. While the great nations of the world are engaged in the struggle of death and destruction, we have today launch-ed these two staunch and serviceable ships, and dedicated them to the more enobling task of saving the lives and rescuing the property of the people." The launching party will return to Washington this evening. The two new vessels are practically duplicates. Each will be armed with a battery of four standard navy six-pounder rapid-fire

Each is 1654 feet over all, has a 32 foot beam, and a depth of 20% feet, and a displacement of 900 tons. Both will be equipped for rescue work on he high seas and for derelict destroy-ng. Each will have a steaming radius of 5,000 miles. Names of Indian derivation were chosen for the new cutters in accordance with the established practice of the service.
